San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 8, 1919.
In a game full of exciting plays and some wonderful pitching by Hunter of the visitors and Williams of the locals, San Antonio defeated Beaumont by the score of 4 to 2, the visitors drew first blood in the second inning by scoring one run and from then on until the lucky seventh it looked like the visitors would out the game by the score of one to nothing, but in the visitor's first half of the seventh, they added another run making the count two and nothing in their favor. The locals came to themselves in their half and tied the count on a single, a walk and Wilson's triple to deep left the ball hitting the fence and with Wilson on third and the next two batters in order, the visitors seem to have had the game won until the sixth when a ball hit to D. Williams, second baseman of the Oilers took a bad bound and went over his head, this break was not injuries for Hunter found Blackmon for final out.

Hunter for Beaumont never had any more stuff on the ball than he did in Friday's game. He struck out eleven batters.

Williams was on the hill for the Broncs and was entitled for much share of the locals credit for winning. He pitched a study game all the way through.

DOUBLE DECKER STAGED SUNDAY.

San Antonio, Texas, Sunday, Aug. 10, 1919.—San Antonio beat Beaumont a double header here today and captured four straight games. Ross, Beaumont's leading pitcher was on the hill for the Oilers and more than 2,500 fans were eager for the game to start; the locals got to Ross in the second inning for four runs on two hits, a batsman and three errors. The visitors scored one in the fourth and the locals came back and counted one in their half and counted one on the mound for the locals and pitched fairly good ball, but the visitors with a little more pep on base running would have crossed the pan at least three times. The second game was a very loose, played affair, the visitors short stop, Williams making a total of nine errors in both games and had to be taken out of both games, he put up the poorest exhibition in short stop ever witnessed here, but he played his regular game at short stop the first game would have been different.

Foots started for the visitors in the second game. White Tank went the route for the Broncs. The visitors started things in the first after two was out. Hudspeth hit in from the plate and Pullin threw wide to first and before the visitors could retire the side the locals had three runs across. The scores:
